CKD remains an under-recognised condition in Australia, due to the asymptomatic nature of the disease and low awareness among Australians regarding the risk factors for CKD. Join Kidney Health Australia with Nephrologist, Professor Karen Dwyer, as she discusses the importance of early detection, how to detect CKD and current treatment options to delay the progression of this under-diagnosed disease. COVID-19 vaccination requirements for people living with chronic kidney disease will also be covered. This is a RACGP accredited activity for 2 CPD points. Activity # 223614
