This webinar, aimed at health professionals and educators, will outline the value of pleasure-focused, positive approaches to Sexual and Reproductive Health and Relationships and Sexuality Education. It will emphasise the need to move beyond traditional harm reduction/risk minimisation paradigms and towards affirming and holistic care that promotes sexual well-being, empowerment, and safer sex practices. Attendees will hear from a range of guest speakers with experience in either clinical or education settings and gain practical tips and tools to incorporate pleasure-positive approaches into their own work.
