GP22 has it all - rich clinical content, sensational plenary speakers, opportunities for professional development and access to a vibrant general practice community.

Join us in Melbourne from 25-27 November for this year's conference as we tackle some of the biggest issues facing general practice in Australia. Headlining our program is Prof Jens Sondergaard from the University of Southern Denmark who will be discussing the Danish primary healthcare model, how it is funded and why it works.

Find out what we can do to make general practice sustainable in our own backyard. Registrations for GP22 are now open.
