Join us at the Immunology Crossroads Conference at the renowned Hunter Medical Research Institute (HMRI) located within the John Hunter Hospital Campus. This ground-breaking conference brings together leading experts, researchers, and clinicians presenting autoimmune diseases, creating a dynamic platform for the exchange of ideas, breakthrough discoveries, and collaborative opportunities.

The conference will feature keynote speeches by renowned clinicians and thought-provoking panel discussions. Attendees will have the unique opportunity to explore a range of topics, including immunotherapy, autoimmune diseases, infectious diseases, immunogenetics, and much more. The Immunology Crossroads Conference serves as a valuable forum to bridge interdisciplinary gaps, fostering collaboration among researchers, clinicians, and industry professionals.

In addition to the main conference, there will be a concurrent Nursing stream running in the Cameron Room. Nurses and healthcare professionals specializing in immunology will have the chance to participate in targeted sessions designed to enhance their knowledge, skills, and clinical practice.
