Join us for a PHN update on the current changes to the NASH Certificate and its use in general practice, allied health and with other healthcare providers. The Australian Digital Health Agency is working closely with Services Australia, software developers, and healthcare organisations to implement enhancements to the National Authentication Service for Health (NASH). These upgrades will provide enhanced security protection for healthcare information and reduce the need for healthcare organisations to manage multiple certificates.

Following the webinar participants will have an improved understanding of the following :

- What are the changes to your NASH certificate
- How to check when your NASH certificate is due to expire
- How to renew your NASH certificate through PRODA
