The Newborn Behavioural Observations (NBO) system is a relationship building tool that fosters a positive parent-infant interactive relationship. A supportive, nurturing relationship that is sensitive and responsive to the infant's needs is a sign of parents' successful adaptation to parenting and optimises their infant's neurological and psychological development.

This online workshop will be run by three or four faculty with an emphasis on interactive exchange and hands-on practice. Presented Live Online via Zoom and NBO Learning Management System.
