This year's conference (21OPCC) will convene leaders, health professionals, and experts in an accessible virtual format, to advance discussion and knowledge about palliative care in Australia and surrounding Oceanic Regions. Not limited by location or capacity, 21OPCC will provide a unique virtual platform for engaging a broader international audience and presenting new research and case studies about quality palliative and end of life care.

With a diverse range of attendees from across the palliative care sector, the Oceanic Palliative Care Conference attracts prominent academic, research and policy influencers, decision-makers and leaders in the industry to shape the way we think about palliative care across our region and beyond.
