

Reframing Professional Boundaries

WHEN Tuesday, August 27th 2024
9:00 AM - 1:00 PM

WHERE Australia

COST Sign up for both our ReframinProfessional Boundaries (usually $495, on Tuesday 27 August) and Workforce Planning (usually $795, on Monday 26 August) workshops and get access to both for $995.

Scan for more information
and registration details

Reframing allied health roles.

Join Professor Susan Nancarrow to explore the practical facilitators of and barriers to task reallocation between health professional roles, and between health professional roles and the delegated workforce. Every health profession is currently grappling with shortages. Compounded by a complex health care system and a unique context of global circumstances, there is an imperative to look at solving existing workforce shortages with new and different solutions.

This workshop will explore the individual and structural factors that unconsciously limit workforce capacity. By understanding these constraints, we can uncover opportunities and drivers for change. The session will also encourage blue-sky thinking, aiming to harness the full potential of the allied health workforce to better meet patient needs.