Supporting Autistic/ADHD Individuals: A Neuro-affirming Approach for Healthcare Professionals.

This webinar is tailored to General Practitioners and other healthcare professionals and explores the experiences of Autistic/ADHD individuals in the healthcare system. Delivered by psychologist Chelsea Luker (Connect Us Psychology), who has both lived and professional experience of neurodivergence, this webinar aims to explore the most current research about health concerns experienced by Autistic/ADHD individuals, the challenges they experience in navigating the healthcare system, along with recommendations on how we can improve the experience of Autistic/ADHD individuals within the healthcare system.

Webinar Highlights:

Exploring the concept of neurodiversity and the principles of neuro-affirming practice.

A comprehensive overview of Autism and ADHD to ensure a clear and updated understanding of these neurotypes.

Highlighting the challenges faced by Autistic/ADHD individuals within the medical system.

Examining the specific health challenges encountered by the Autistic/ADHD community.

Practical steps and strategies to make healthcare more accessible for Autistic/ADHD individuals.

Ensure you're equipped to offer the best care possible. Enhance your practice, enrich your understanding, and elevate the level of care you provide.
