

Take to heart: The absolute risk reduction approach to preventing ASCVD

WHEN Thursday, November 3rd 2022
7:00 PM – 8:30 PM

WHERE Online

COST Free

Atherosclerotic cardiovascular disease (ASCVD) is largely preventable with a number of modifiable clinical factors accounting for the majority of risk. The absolute risk approach is potentially more than twice as effective at reducing death from coronary heart disease as the individual risk factor approach.

In this webinar, A/Prof Ralph Audehm will outline how you can implement the absolute risk approach in your practice, including use of Heart Health Checks.

Scan for more information and registration details